PIONEER EXPEDITIONS

Tanjung Puting National Park is arguably the best place in Borneo to see orangutans as it is home to the densest population of wild orangutans (over 4,000) anywhere in the world. You will also see the rare proboscis monkey, the false gavia crocodile and a wide range of tropical birds.

Whilst here you will spend your time on board a river boat (klotok), which is a great way to enter deep into the Borneo rainforest, as well as trekking and camping deep within the forest. Key facts of wildlife found in Tanjung Puting are:

- The largest wild orangutan population in the world
- 9 species of primates
- 3 species of primates endemic to Borneo, proboscis, red leaf-eating monkeys, and Bornean orangutans
- 230 species of birds
- Two species of crocodiles
- Dozens of species of snakes and frogs

Return back to the houseboat as you head up to Camp Leakey, a landmark institution you will come to know on this wildlife tour in Borneo. Camp Leakey was established in 1971 by Dr Birute Galdikas and former spouse Rod Brindamour. It was named after the legendary paleo-anthropologist, Louis Leakey, who was both mentor and an inspiration to Dr. Galdikas as well as Drs. Jane Goodall and Dian Fossey. When we arrive in Camp Leakey we can learn about its history and we will trek through the jungle with the opportunity of seeing numerous orangutans, gibbons, wild pigs and birds. Upon arrival in Jakarta you will be met by our representative and transferred to your hotel. A farewell dinner will be served at the hotel to celebrate this wildlife holiday to Borneo and our better understanding of the orangutans (our nearest cousins) and the conflict between their sanctuary and our quest for ever more commercial development, which means that the rain forests in Indonesia are still being destroyed at a rate of the size 300 football pitch per hour!
